STAND UP FOR ARIZONA.

PHOENIX, NOVEMBER 2, 1895.

THE EASTERN TROUBLE.

The protest which has been sent up from England respecting the Russo-Chinese treaty has a vigorous sound. And well may the British be alarmed over the news, for, if the treaty is as stated and be permitted to stand, Russia will be the dominant power in the far east and England will be irreparably damaged in prestige and in business interests.

All that is known up to this time respecting the matter was contained in a dispatch to the London Times. Its Hong-Pekin correspondent states that Russia and China have negotiated a treaty which gives Russia the privilege of anchoring her navy in the harbor at Port Arthur and accords her the right to build and control various lines of railways over Chinese territory, including one to Port Arthur. The favored nation clause generally made a part of treaties cannot apply to such privileges as those, and it is apparent that, if the news is true, Russia has determined upon a bold and aggressive policy in the east, a policy that ignores the interests of England to such an extent that the Russian authorities must know that it will provoke war.

The startling information had not been officially confirmed at last accounts; but the Times states its correspondent has means of knowing what is going on in the inner councils of the Chinese and Russians and it gives the weight of its authority in support of the correctness of the alarming report. Its opinion is evidently given that great weight which, for generations, has been accorded to its statements on matters of news, for all England is stirred up and even the government has been roused into the greatest activity over the question. Moreover, the report accords with the recent information that Russia is moving a large fleet towards Korea.

There will no doubt be denials from both Russian and Chinese sources, but England will probably demand a guarantee that no such programme shall be inaugurated. Over this the controversy will rage in diplomatic circles until the guarantee shall be given or until England shall have made up her mind that it will not be given. Nor is England likely to give Russia much time to perfect her plans while diplomatically staving off the issue. There will either be a prompt and satisfactory disavowal of any such treaty or there will be a stir in Europe that will grow warlike hourly. England cannot afford to permit Russia to secure any such advantages, nor can she afford to give her an opportunity to perfect any programme of that character.

DO IT AGAIN.

The carnival held last winter was a good thing for Phoenix as everybody will agree. It brought people to the city; it advertised it far and wide; it stimulated trade, and it promoted good feeling and good fellowship. Besides it was a capital advantage to have such a day of mirth and gaily.

Many of the citizens have said, "Why did we never have an event like this before?" We have missed much enjoyment and amusement, and no small amount of profit for the lack of such an enterprise.

Then why not do it every year? Let the Phoenix carnival become a fixture on the calendar, an annual festival which in a few years will be famous all over the broad land. The first carnival had its drawbacks; there was little time to prepare, it was a novel undertaking; and in spite of these drawbacks it was a triumphant success.

Now can the committee which so creditably organized and arranged that carnival be perpetuated, or have its successor nominated immediately, so that the event may become an annual one? Fix an annual date for the Phoenix carnival. That first year was confessedly too late. The last Monday in January would be a good date. Then this year and each succeeding year preparations can begin in good time, and on a grand and elaborate scale. Let's do it again, and begin the preparation now.

A CASE OF CHARITY.

Camped on a lot near the residence of Captain George is an old man, his demented son and aged invalid wife worthy objects of temporary assistance.

The family left Kansas City on July 15, en route by wagon for Los Angeles. On the trip they have been overtaken by sickness and misfortune. They arrived in Phoenix a week ago without money and without food. On their arrival one of their horses died and they are unable to proceed. Captain George has furnished the family with food since their arrival and they are now sufficiently recuperated to leave for California except for the want of a horse.

The matter should be looked into by the charitable organizations. Horses are cheap and it ought not to be difficult to supply another. The Republican is willing to donate its share for the purpose of sending these unfortunate people on the way to their destination.

All the plans for reforming the currency which are proposed by the goldbugs and the Bankers' associations conceal the designs of their authors by inserting something about an elastic currency. By an elastic currency is meant one which shall expand and contract in answer to the demands of business. This looks all right on its face, but who is to decide when the requirements demand an expansion or a contraction? Why, the bankers of course. That is the way all the plans are built. Does any one doubt that the expansion and contraction will always be in the interest of the masters of the situation? Are the men who are carrying on the business of the country likely to be consulted? Wouldn't it be better to have a currency sufficient in volume for any condition, and then when it was not all needed the surplus could lie idle just as railroad cars do at periods of the year when the traffic does not require them.

Discussing the question of local option in connection with the liquor traffic the Denver Republican says: "If local option is a good thing, where is it to stop? If each municipality should be given the right to decide by a majority vote whether the sale of intoxicants must be permitted or prohibited on Sunday, why should not each individual be allowed to settle the saloon question for himself?" In as much as cities have never been conceded sovereign powers in this country the suggestion of the Republican is a logical one. As long as cities are a part of the state they should not be permitted to establish regulations differing from those of other cities. In fact local option on the part of each individual is the only practical way to regulate the traffic.

The prize fight will not come to Phoenix, so there will be no necessity for alarm on the part of those who might be opposed to the idea. Still, after all, the fight would bring more money to the city than is likely to come for a year in any ordinary channel—and money is what the most of us are here for.

San Francisco is the proper place for the National Republican convention. Let the east come to the west and see what a grand country we have in spite of the evil effects of Wall street legislation.

It was an Ohio clergyman that offered to vote for Senator Brice for $1,500 provided he himself was elected to the legislature. Thrifty fellow, that.

If anything is needed to hoodoo McKinley it is for John Sherman to present his name to the convention next year.

The Kansas reunion will take place at the park today. A cordial welcome is extended to all Kansans to participate.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

County Superintendent Crouse Answers an Unusual Charge.

Editor of The Republican: In the October issue of the School Register I note a clipping from The Guardian in which the assertion is made that the teachers of Maricopa county are trying to break up the territorial institute.

The writer thereof doffs his hat to the teachers of Maricopa county and says some pretty things about them and the power they possess. In behalf of the teachers of this county permit me to say that we are not guilty of the charge, if such it may be called; neither are we on the decline as intimated, and for proof of the fact we cite the testimony of our governor and territorial superintendent of public instruction.

It is true that we have forty-seven school districts and ninety teachers at work in our schools, and that the cost of maintaining these schools, exclusive of the cost of new buildings, will exceed $50,000 this year, yet we desire to appear not vain or offensive to our good brethren who, because of their fortunate elevation and location have more ozone for their blood, thus affording a fine sense of duty. However, be assured that it is not the intent of any teacher of Maricopa county to injure the territorial institute; and, as usual, you will find this county well represented. No one has been authorized to say that the teachers of this county would not attend the territorial institute. The Maricopa county teachers' institute will be in session in Phoenix from December 23 to 27, inclusive, excluding Christmas day, and I have said to the teachers here attend either of these institutes, or both, if so inclined.
